

3-25-2015

What's in a name? Introducing Pacific University Press

Isaac Gilman
Pacific University

Follow this and additional works at: <http://commons.pacificu.edu/libfac>

Part of the Library and Information Science Commons

Recommended Citation

Gilman, Isaac, "What's in a name? Introducing Pacific University Press" (2015). Faculty Scholarship (PUL). Paper 26.
<http://commons.pacificu.edu/libfac/26>

This Presentation is brought to you for free and open access by the Pacific University Libraries at CommonKnowledge. It has been accepted for inclusion in Faculty Scholarship (PUL) by an authorized administrator of CommonKnowledge. For more information, please contact CommonKnowledge@pacificu.edu.

What's in a name? Introducing Pacific University Press

Description

This presentation describes the mission and basic structure and function of the Pacific University Press, a new press launching in 2015. For more information, please contact press@pacificu.edu.

Disciplines

Library and Information Science

Rights

Terms of use for work posted in CommonKnowledge.

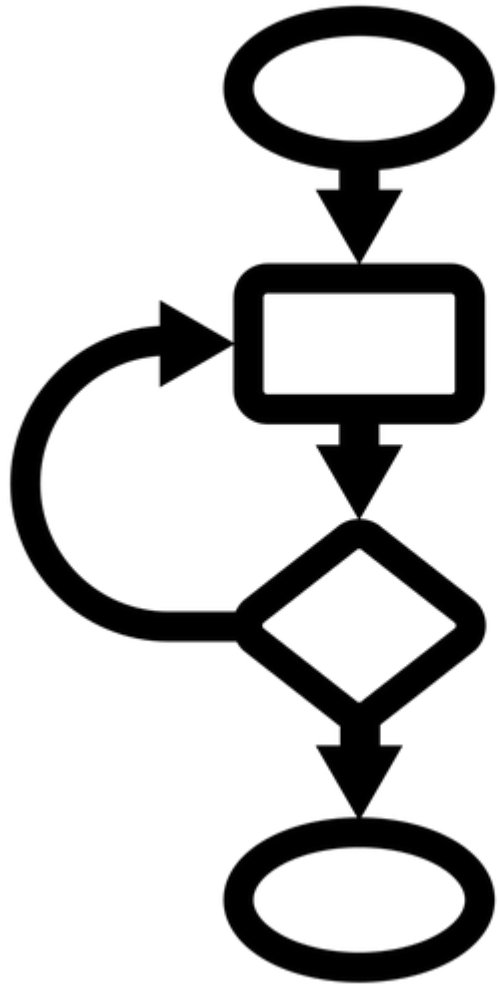

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

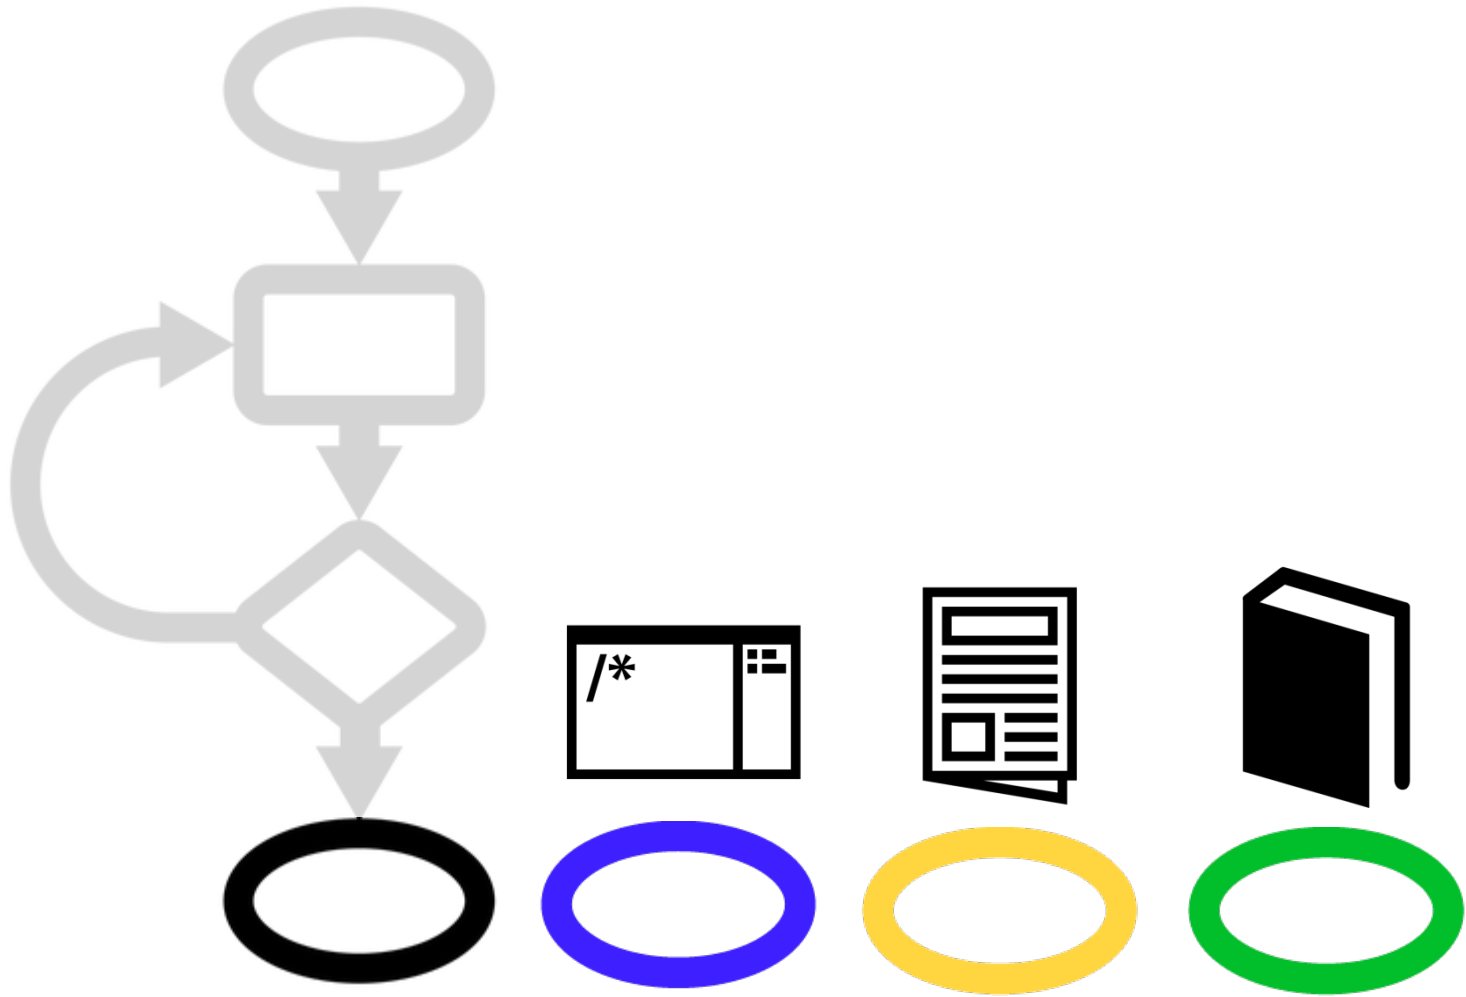

Introducing Pacific University Press

Isaac Gilman

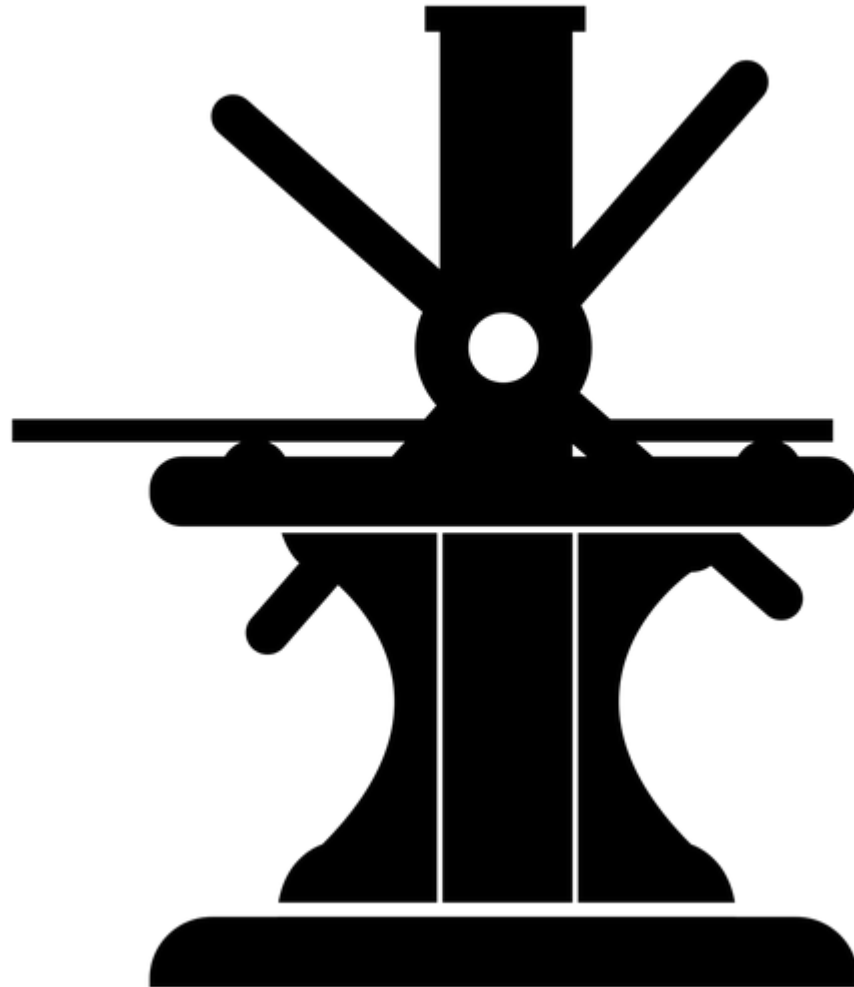

Pacific University Libraries & Press

03.25.2015

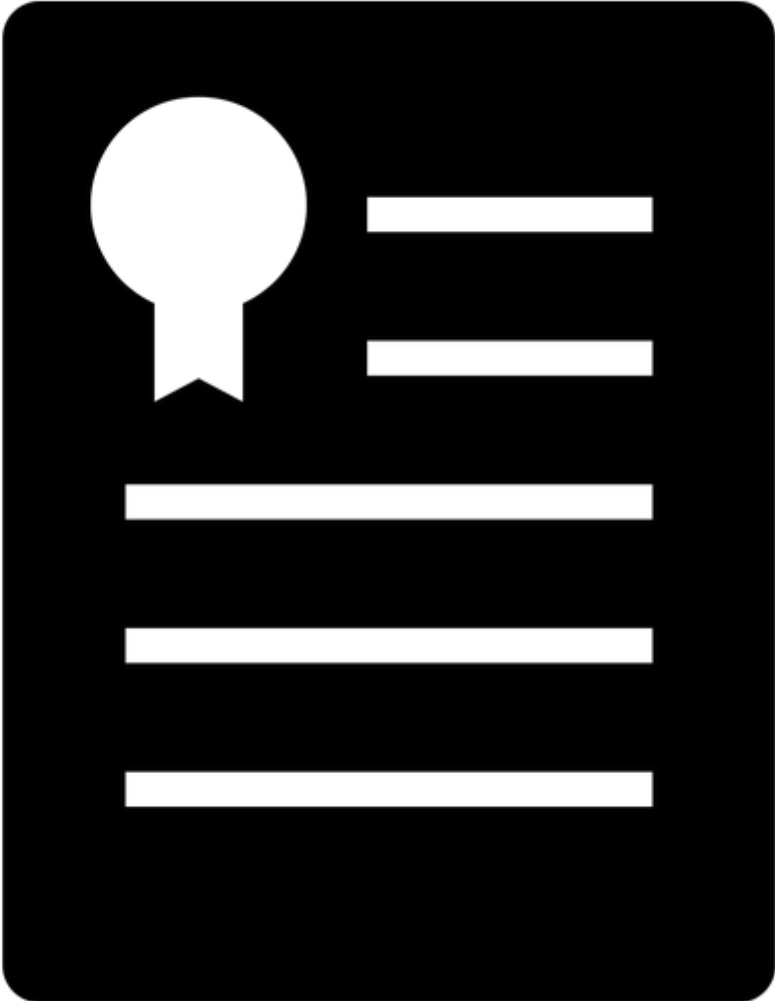

PACIFIC
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Why a “university
press”?

“[A]pply the double test, what is done for personal instruction, and what is done for the promotion of knowledge, and you will be able to judge any institution which assumes this name [of university].”

Daniel Coit Gilman
Address at Johns Hopkins University
22 February 1885

What does it look like?

Mission

The Pacific University Press advances the Pacific University Libraries' fundamental mission of making useful information openly available to our local and global communities.

Through publishing practices that emphasize authorial agency, editorial engagement, and equitable access, the Press tangibly models the attributes that Pacific University seeks to instill in our students: excellence in scholarship, diversity of thought, and the pursuit of just and sustainable communities.

Scope

Format + Model

How will it work?

Editorial roles

- Acquisition teams
Faculty member + liaison librarian
- Editorial board
5 internal, 4 external, 2 ex officio
- Peer reviewers
Internal or external
- Developmental editors
Faculty members (w/ stipend)

Production

- Copyediting
Freelance
- Design (e.g. cover design)
Freelance
- Interior production
Library staff
- Metadata and distribution
Library staff

Roles

LIBRARIES

Press Director

Associate Press Director

Acquisition Teams

Interior Design & Production ($$)

Metadata ($)

Distribution ($)

UNIVERSITY / PARTNERS

Editorial Board

Peer Reviewers ($)

Developmental Editing ($$$)

Copyediting ($$$)

Cover Design ($$)

Building institutional support

Provost's Council (2013, 2014)

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

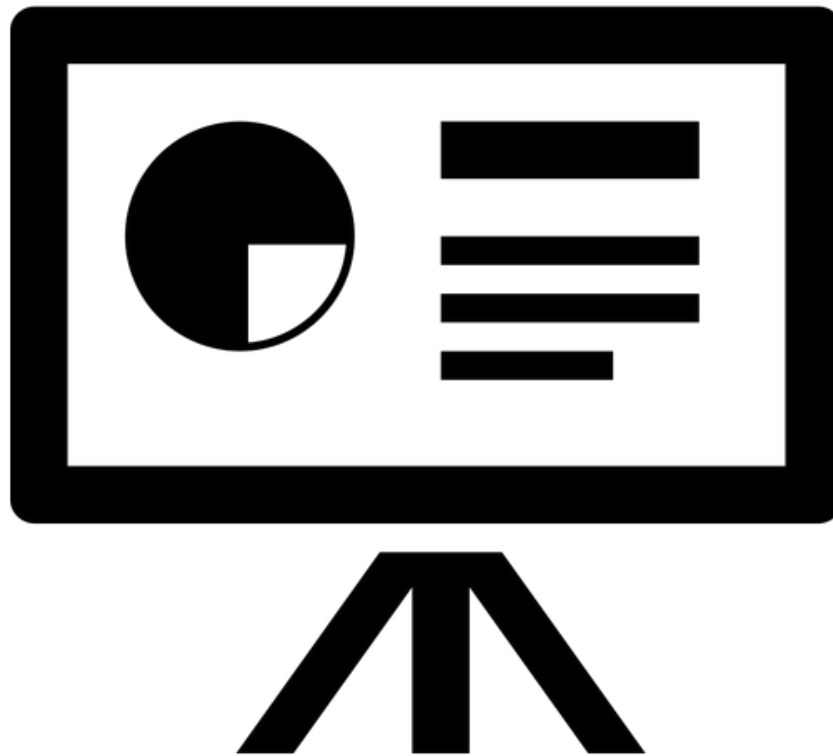

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

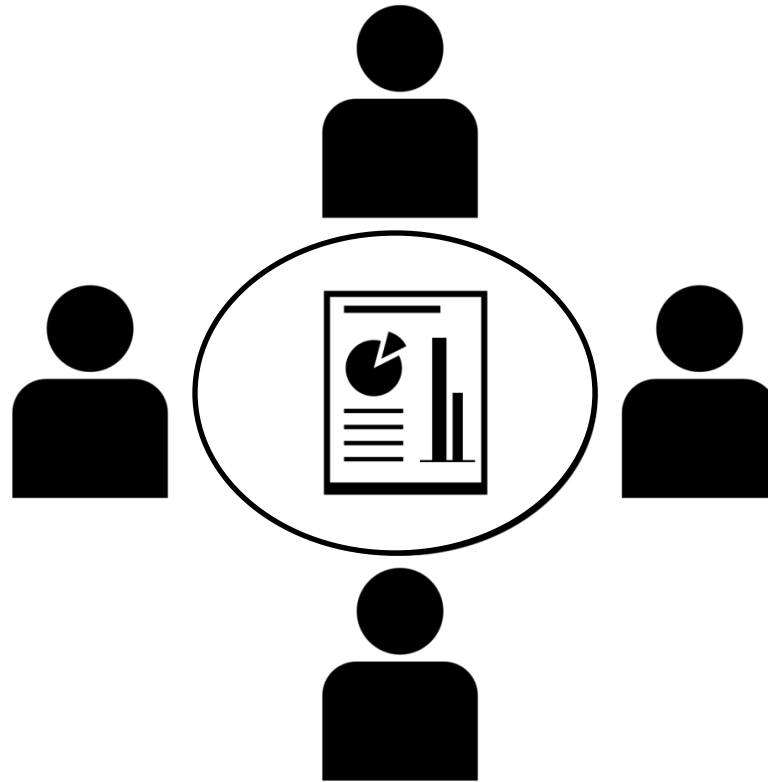

President's Cabinet (2014)

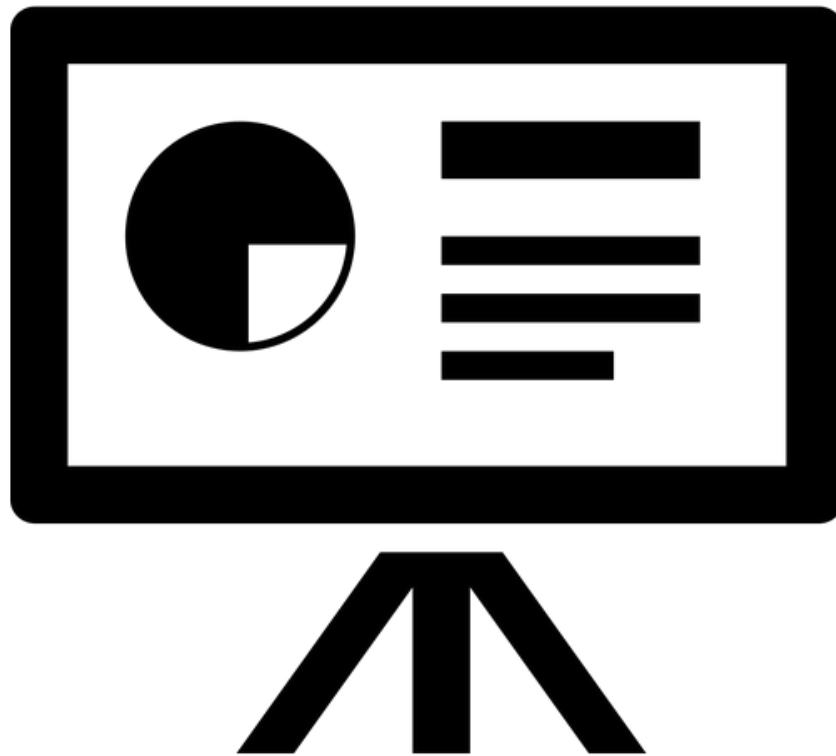

Advisory Board (2014)

Board of Trustees (2014)

Faculty (2015)

What's ahead?

press@pacificu.edu | gilmani@pacificu.edu